TAMMANY'S BENEFITS SHOWN.

President of the County Democracy, Powers, Hopes to See a Young and Able Democrat Governing Our Affairs.

With Mayor Harrison on this trip is almost every official of the city of Chicago. They have left the Western metropolis with not a single important officer, to get along as best they may for the three or four days that they are absent. Besides the Mayor and the Chief of Police, City Clerk William Loeffler, City Treasurer Ernst Hummel, City Attorney Miles J. Devine and two of his assistants, together with Corporation Counsel C. S. Thornton, the Commissioners of Buildings, Public Works, the County Civil Service Commissioners, all of their secretaries, the Superintendent of Streets, Street Cleaning, Water Service, Smoke Inspection and Sewers, the City Physicians, the Tax Assessors and Collectors, the Supervisors, five Judges, seventeen Aldermen, six members of the Legislature, the city's sealer, and even National Democratic Committeeman Thomas Gahan, are in the party.

"When I say that to-night is one of those that shall never be effaced from my memory and is as well one of the proudest of my life, I say it in sincerity," was the comment of Grand Marshal James Farrell as he surveyed with a look of genuine gratification the enthusiastic crowds that cheered the progress of the phalanx down Broadway last night.

"The last time that I marched down this old street it was many years ago, and it was as a soldier of the volunteer service of this city and county, in the Ellsworth Zouaves, known as the Fifth New York Zouaves. We were marching to do a different kind of battle that day, but for what we knew was the preservation of our country. So it does my old heart proud to once more tread this grand old thoroughfare of the metropolis, so familiar to me in the early days, and know that I and my fellows are again marching on to aid in another victory for the preservation of a principle almost as dear. As then, I am now confident in the result, for Democracy seems to be in this very atmosphere of New York.

One of the most imposing figures in the front rank of the little army of Harrison Democrats was that of "Chief" Joseph Kipley, whose official designation is General Superintendent of Police. Although he has been a member of the Chicago department for more than a quarter of a century, he has been its acting executive only since Young Carter Harrison has been Mayor. They do many things in Chicago indifferently from New York.

"No, I have not come on to New York to reorganize your police, in fact, not even to talk on that subject, if I am allowed to follow my own inclination. It is true that we have a system that may seem strange to you New Yorkers, but it is a system that we think in Chicago is just the proper thing. Aside from politics, the publicans and Democrats both believe in the centralization of power, and when a new Mayor is elected to office he not only appoints his own chief, but the chief's subordinates, the captains and the lieutenants of the department."

One of the big guns of the visiting delegation is City Clerk "Filly" Loeffler. He is one of the most popular men on the recently elected Harrison ticket; among the cleverest of the many public speakers of which Chicago boasts.

"I have come," he told a Journal representative, "to lend my humble efforts in the campaign of Democracy, with my friends, on behalf of Tammany Hall, and during my short stay here, expect to address one or two gatherings of Bohemians and Germans. I will endeavor to impress upon them the fact that they ought to give their votes to the party representing the political principles which led them to seek the shores of America, from the persecution and oppression which they endured in their native land. It is this important form of government, which Judge Van Wyck stands for above all else, and while not in any measure attempting to dictate to them as to what to do in their own city, I will show to them just what their fellow countrymen in Chicago have gained by following the very same standard as that now borne aloft by Robert A. Van Wyck."

Commissioner of Public Works McGinn is another of the Chicago cohorts now among us, and a man who does not hesitate to declare his opinion that the campaign as conducted by Judge Van Wyck with its incidental luck of bluster on the part of the candidate, presages that he, in the event of his election, will give to New York a thorough, consistent and business-like administration such as Carter Harrison is now giving the populace of Greater Chicago.

"Don't think," said Commissioner McGinn, "that we are not in touch with what is going on in New York, for the Journal, if no other paper, keeps us posted daily. We, therefore, have the opportunity to make comparisons, and learn a thing or two about you."

Those who, if not the biggest man in the Chicago delegation, certainly holds the highest office, for he is the president of the County Democracy of Chicago, declared:

"No trip of the many we have made north, south and west, has excited more interest among Chicago Democrats than this present one. Just now it is a sort of off season with us, and the political game is dull until the Spring election, so we must keep our hand in the game, we have been watching closely the campaign here, and decided to come on and whom things up for the New York Democracy, so as not to lose practice, and with the hope of seeing another young and able Democrat at the head of the next biggest city in the country."

FOOD FOR DAWSONITES.

Relief Expedition to the Hunger Stricken Miners to Be Pushed Forward from Pyramid Harbor.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 28.—The Yukon expedition backed by Pierre Humber, Jr., a Boston banker, put to sea to-night aboard the old ship Colorado, carrying 278 horses, 62 horses, 75 dogs, several hundred sleds and vast quantities of supplies and feed. An additional 100 head of cattle will be shipped to-morrow night for the same destination on the steamer City of Seattle.

At Pyramid Harbor the live stock will be discharged and an effort made to drive both cattle and horses to Dawson despite the snow, ice and storms of the Arctic regions. James Buchanan Smith, of Victoria, a man past sixty-five years of age, is the manager of the expedition, and he announces his intention of accomplishing it, notwithstanding the utter collapse of the expedition launched over sixty days ago for the purpose of taking in 90 head of cattle and as many horses by Willis Thorpe, the Alaska pioneer.

The Steamship City of Topeka sailed for Alaska to-day, having 75 passengers, 40 of whom are bound for Dawson. About 15 are headed for the Copper River country.

ST. MICHAEL'S IS FREE

No Monopoly Permitted at the Government Reservation, Legitimate Trade There Being Open to All.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 28.—Puget Sound shipping and mercantile interests have been greatly concerned over the Government's order making a military reservation of St. Michael's Island and the adjacent territory. It has been believed that it gave a practical monopoly to the Alaska Commercial and North American Trading companies, and that companies now organizing to operate steamship lines from St. Michael's up the Yukon might be shut out. Now the news comes that this will not be the case. In the form of the following telegram from Secretary Alger:

The military reservation at St. Michael's was established in the interest of the security of life and property, the preservation of order and the preservation of legitimate business interests. Any proper company or person who desires to conduct legitimate business there will, on application to the War Department, be given permission to do so.

The steamer City of Topeka, en route to Tacoma from Alaska this afternoon ran aground near Point Brown, just beyond the entrance to the harbor. The Santa Cruz has gone to her assistance and she will probably float at the night tide. Dense fog caused the accident.

STRAW BAIL THE CHARGE.

Aged John D. Graham Held for Examination on an Indictment for Perjury Over a $300 Bond.

John D. Graham, sixty-five years old, was arraigned before Justice Hurd, of the County Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, having been indicted for perjury. He is alleged to have given a $300 bond in the action entitled, "The matter of the application of Rosa Minzle, as owner, to remove lien of Peppercorn Company." He represented himself as owner of property at Stapleton, S. I., valued at $37,000; also that he had an interest in the property at No. 55 West One Hundred and Thirty-fourth street, New York, which is valued at $28,000.

All these statements, District-Attorney Backus claims to have discovered to be untrue. He alleges that the accused has given "straw" bonds in a number of other instances.

Graham has a brokerage office on Broadway, New York. He lives with his family at No. 324 Greene avenue, Brooklyn. He was held for examination in default of $2,500 bail.

CROWDS HEAR W. J. BRYAN.

The Late Democratic Candidate Received with Enthusiasm in Ohio.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 28.—William J. Bryan spoke to-day at Mount Vernon to about ten thousand people. About one-fifth were women. Excursions were there from Delaware, Richmond, Ashland, Morrow, Coshocton and Holmes counties. It was after ten a. m. when the procession formed. The press about Mr. Bryan was so great as to make it difficult for him to leave his carriage. He was very hoarse while speaking, and spoke until twelve o'clock, when he left for Newark.

The speech followed the same channel as on his first appearance in Ohio. A message from Newark said that Bryan had the largest meeting at two p. m. ever held there. From there he went to Somerset.

PULLMAN MEN AWAIT FIELD.

New President Will Not Be Chosen Until the Dry Goods Man Returns.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—At a conference of the directors of the Pullman Palace Car Company to-day it was decided to cable Marshall Field, who is now in Europe, that the selection of Mr. Pullman's successor would not be made until his return. Henry Reed, of Boston; Henry C. Hulbert, of New York; J. W. Doane, Norman Williams and A. A. Sprague, of Chicago, attended the conference.

CAUGHT AFTER 30 YEARS.

Wife Strangely Finds Her Husband, Who Deserted Her in Russia in 1867.

After a separation of nearly thirty years, Herman Safer, sixty-four years old, of No. 157 Boerum street, Brooklyn, was yesterday confronted with his wife in the Even Street Police Court, where she charged him with abandonment. She lives with her three grown-up children at No. 93 Selgel street.

She said that about thirty years ago Safer mysteriously disappeared from the small Russian town in which they lived, and that she at length came to believe that he had been foully dealt with. About a year ago her children came to America and settled in Williamsburg. In the early part of the summer one of the sons came across a man who greatly resembled his long-lost father, and they sent for their mother. She recognized the man as her husband, and had him arrested for abandonment.

At first, yesterday in court, Safer emphatically denied that he was the person wanted. He afterwards admitted that he became the woman's husband and said that before leaving Russia in 1867, he obtained a divorce from his wife through a rabbi. Justice Lemon adjourned the hearing.

WEDDED A DUNRAVEN.

The Irish Knight of Glin, Who Owes This Honor to His Ancestors, Lord Decies and Desmond, the Groom.

Dublin, Oct. 28.—Desmond Fitzgerald, the Knight of Glin, of Glyn Castle, County Limerick, was married this afternoon at Adare Church, Adare, County Limerick, to Lady Rachel Charlotte Wyndham-Kiln, eldest daughter of the Earl of Dunraven. His lordship gave the bride away. There were six bridesmaids—Lady Aileen May, sister of the bride; Lady Helen Kerr, Lady Beatrice Hare and the Misses Blennerhassett, Montague and Strutt. The bride wore white satin, Brussels lace and orange blossoms. After the ceremony, the Countess of Dunraven held a reception at Adare Manor.

The bridegroom owes his peculiar title to his ancestor, Lord Decies and Desmond, who by virtue of his royal sealgrants created his three sons by his second marriage respectively Knight of Kerry, Knight of Glyn, and White Knight. The last named of these three honors, which are hereditary, became extinct nearly a hundred years ago. But the titles of Knight of Kerry and Knight of Glyn are still borne by lineal descendants of Lord Decies.

MAGOWAN HAS A HOME.

He and His Second Wife Are Resting at the American House, While Trenton Talks.

Trenton, Oct. 28.—Frank A. Magowan, his Oklahoma bride and her child are no longer outcasts. They are no longer cowering in the rude shelter of a barn.

The former millionaire and Mayor has managed, after many rebuffs, to secure quarters at the American House, where the burden of public opinion does not outweigh those commercial considerations that have so much to do with the successful conduct of an inn.

Former Mayor Magowan is resting. The general view is that he needs rest badly after his sensational experiences of yesterday. The entire city is talking to-day of his victim, in his robe de nuit, from the colonial mansion he had built in honor of the divorced wife of his former superior-tendent. The fact that he should have submitted to such an indignity, rather than take his departure in peace, clothed in his right mind, is accepted as positive proof. If further proof were needed—that Frank A. Magowan has lost the mental strength and grip that made him, heretofore, a leader among men.

On the other hand, it is surmised by many of his old associates that there was something more than foolish and stubborn pride behind his determination to compel the officers of the law to make a public right mind. They say that, in his extremity, he deemed it a wise thing to obtain ground for a damages suit against his enemies. That he was so prompt in starting a suit against the Sheriff, as told in to-day's Journal, lends color to this view. As the syndicate owning Magowan's house had already furnished a bond indemnifying the Sheriff, they will, of course, eventually be responsible.

Magowan remained in his room at the hotel all day and refused to disclose his plans for the future.

IASIGI IS ARRAIGNED.

Trial of the Former Turkish Consul for Alleged Embezzlement Begins in Boston.

Boston, Oct. 28.—Joseph A. Iasigi, former Turkish Consul here, was arraigned before Judge Sheldon to-day on the charge of embezzling $220,000 from Charles Derolux and Charles Villardiere.

After the jurors had been called to-day the indictment was read by Clerk Manning. Mr. Iasigi assumed an easy attitude and hardly moved while the indictment was being read. The indictment numbers seventy-eight counts.

Assistant District-Attorney Sughrue described the crime charged, and said that Francis Eugene Derolux died in France about 1878, leaving an estate in this country, of which Oscar Iasigi, of Boston, brother of the defendant, was appointed administrator. "On the death of Oscar in 1884," said he, "the defendant solicited acceptance of the office as administrator of the trust. He was appointed. Some time ago Francis Peabody, Jr., counsel for Derolux, M. Derolux and M. Villardiere, applied to the defendant for an accounting. He left the city with the intention, as it was believed, to flee from the country, and was arrested in New York."

Letters in which Iasigi asked to be appointed administrator were offered in evidence.

THIEVES STEAL BICYCLES.

Two Riders Get Away with Wheels in Mount Vernon.

Charles Vandervoort left his bicycle standing in front of the post office in Mount Vernon yesterday. A stranger mounted the wheel and rode away. He eluded capture, after being closely pursued for ten blocks by several riders.

A thief entered the bicycle store of Conrad Wechter in Fourth avenue. "I want you to repair the fork of my wheel. You can get the machine at my house at No. 21 East Third street. How much will it be?"

Mr. Wechter said it would cost $2. The stranger paid him. Then he hired a wheel and rode away. The address given by the thief is fictitious.

Long Island Brevities.

A defective fuse caused a fire, which completely destroyed the Blue Point schoolhouse yesterday. The building was valued at $2,000, but was insured for only $2,000. The classes will be held at present in the Free Church Hall.

The body of an unknown man, which was washed ashore near George B. Wilson's country place, at Great Neck, on Wednesday, still lies there, awaiting identification. The body was dressed only in an undershirt, drawers and socks.

Superior Halse, of Riverhead, has introduced a resolution to make tramps earn their food while in jail there. There was talk of spending $5,000 for a steam stone crusher, but the Superior says the county should save this money and compel the tramps to break stones for good roads.
